Dear Real Chemistry hiring team,

I am applying for the Account Director (Healthcare Communications) role at Real Chemistry. I spent eight years managing healthcare and pharmaceutical accounts, with day-to-day responsibility for client relationships, regulated multichannel work, budgets, scopes, and strategic recommendations. Since then, I have led UX teams and built AI tools for pharmaceutical agencies. I know the account work firsthand and have learned how to improve the systems behind it.

FCB Health was the center of my agency career. During my second stint there, I was one of two consumer account leads on the agency's largest pharmaceutical business and managed the $20M Namenda XR direct-to-consumer launch. I led the broadcast workstream for three national commercials in one year, from market research and med-legal review through FDA preclearance, production, and network clearance. The spots drove a 45% increase in new-to-brand consumers within seven weeks. Earlier, on the $10M NUVIGIL consumer business, I owned weekly client status and financial reporting, OPDP submissions, multichannel delivery, and annual strategic recommendations.

My account-management experience began at RosettaWishbone, where I was the primary contact across client brand teams, national affiliates, and vendors. I handled briefs, scopes of work, key opinion leader communication, client status, and financial reporting for Pfizer work, including an Africa and Middle East advisory board in Dubai. At Scout Marketing, I was promoted to Account Supervisor / Digital Strategist and led Jazz Pharmaceuticals' XYREM consumer work across digital, print, and in-office channels. That included Jazz's first unbranded social campaign and a digital program that doubled qualified traffic to the brand site.

After account management, I moved into pharmaceutical UX and then enterprise design leadership. At Heartbeat Ideas, I translated research and stakeholder input into patient, HCP, and brand-team experiences. At Kinesso, I grew a distributed design team from 2 to 30 and led enterprise analytics work used by more than 7,000 people across 22 brands. Today, I build AI tools for pharmaceutical agencies that support claim review, brief intake, scoping, review routing, and MLR preparation. That work keeps me close to the way account teams turn research, data, and technical constraints into clear recommendations.

I am ready to return to healthcare account leadership with more experience leading teams, presenting data, and improving how work gets delivered. I would welcome the chance to discuss the Account Director (Healthcare Communications) role with Real Chemistry.

Sincerely,

Wally Mostafa
