SUMMARY

I lead product and experience strategy, with hands-on work in product design and AI implementation. I led enterprise UX and design systems for platforms used by 7,000+ people across 22 brands and grew a product design team from 2 to 30. Today I turn client problems into AI products and working POCs, carrying the work from discovery into delivery. Earlier client leadership keeps me focused on both the business need and the people using the product.
