Dear OX hiring team,

I am applying for the Associate Director, Client Strategy role at OX. I spent eight years in agency account management, progressing from Account Coordinator to Account Supervisor while leading Fortune 500 relationships, multichannel programs, budgets, scopes, and financial reporting. The work that followed in UX, analytics, and AI showed me how strategy, design, and technology decisions shape what clients can actually use.

At FCB Health, I was one of two consumer account leads on the agency's largest pharmaceutical business and managed the $20M Namenda XR direct-to-consumer launch. I led three national television commercials in one year across research, med-legal review, production, and network clearance. The spots drove a 45% increase in new-to-brand consumers within seven weeks. Earlier, on the $10M NUVIGIL consumer business, I owned weekly client status and financial reporting, multichannel delivery, and annual strategic recommendations.

At Scout Marketing, I was promoted to Account Supervisor / Digital Strategist and led Jazz Pharmaceuticals consumer work across digital, print, social, and in-office channels. At RosettaWishbone, I was the primary contact across client teams, affiliates, and vendors and owned briefs, scopes of work, stakeholder communication, status, and financial reports. That is the account work I know. Learn the client's business, give the team clear direction, and put enough detail behind the scope that the group can deliver it.

Since then, I have grown a distributed design team from 2 to 30, helped build a repeatable digital audit workflow, and led client discovery for working AI and product prototypes. I also designed an agency finance tool for regional rate cards and natural-language scope changes. My direct financial record covers budgets up to $20M, weekly reporting, scopes, and rate-card workflows. This role would extend that foundation through more formal forecasting and profitability responsibility.

OX is appealing because client service, experience design, and practical technology have all been part of my career. I would welcome a conversation about how that mix could help the client-strategy team.

Sincerely,

Wally Mostafa
